THURSDAYAUGUST 8, 1861

Tuz Union meeting of "true Democrats" at the Court House last night was a very slim and amusing affair. If the Union waits for its safety upon the movements of such meetings as that of last night, it will never be rescued. It was refreshing, even in this "heated term," to see some of the actors playing their farce of Union.

----Governor Morrow's Rockville speech still continues to grind some of the "sore headed" sympathisers in this region. It was very much like an application of lunar caustic .-The cauterization, however, will do them good when it heals up. He patient, gentlemen! If you are not guity of sympathy with the attempt to destroy the Union, you will not be hurt.

Tax press teems with accounts of the energy, activity and ability displayed by Major Generals McClellas and Francer, in the organization and discipline of their troops .-They seem to understand the articles of war and the rules and regulations of the army, and are taking measures to have them observed. Their present conduct augurs future success. It will not be possible to stampede their columns, when led to battle .--The country naturally expects great exploits from them, and will probably not be disappointed. Doubtless the next advance will be made toward the South by Gen. FRENONT at the head of the column of the Mississippi

out General Scott as assailing the President From conversation with several of our German friends, we are advised that this class of citizens are entering actively into the work of making up an entire regiment, under the late call. A company is rapidly forming here under the supervision of Mr. P. H. Mostors. The intention of those composing the regiment is, we are told, to have only offieers of experience and good military education, and, so far as possible, men who have seen service heretofore. There are many Germans in our State, who were officers in the European revolutions of 1848, and who have been thoroughly trained to arms in their native country. A regiment composed of such officers and men, will be patient in camp, and terrible in the field. If the Germans of Indiana carry out their plan, and place the command of their regiment in bold, the heels of its associates, and screams in intelligent and skillful hands, it will be one terror at its own fancies. If we shared its of the "crack" regiments of the Northwest. guilt we might share itsalarm.

The Workings of Treason.

The treason which our Government is now endeavoring, with all its resources, to crush oct, was most wonderful in its origin and crafty in its dissemination. In its inception it pervaded all the Departments of the Government. The Army and Navy were filled It had a lodgment, of some kind, in almost every city and village. Its spies were in almost every council and place of tenst .-Events daily transpiring show that this state of things still continues to some extent .-The happening of many occurrences can only be explained upon the theory that traitors still hold position among loyal officials, and are still trusted and admitted to important councils. It is pretty evident that our army and navy still contain a fair complement of secessionists. There were persons in our army, at Manassas, holding posts of importance, who were suspected of dislovalty, and who, if their conversation was in earnest, were not fit to hold commands in the face of an enemy with whom they sympathised. It is asserted that traitorous teamsters and la- throats' Shall he meet such a fate as that borers were constantly in the employment of dealt out by the "rebels" to his brave comour army in Virginia

Sons of Erin! countrymen of the German literateur, Julius Bing, who was cuptured, at the battle, on the 21st ult., tomac in twenty days, their battle cry being, and afterwards released by the rebels. He Corcoran, Rescued, if Living, Aveaged, if states that he heard it asserted, at BEALER gano's headquarters, in a boasting manner, that there had been received, "before the at tack at Bulls Run, a cipher dispatch, from some well informed person, within our lines. giving full details of our movement, including the particulars of the plan of battle, the time at which operations would commence, and this, on the withdrawal of our forces from Moffatt, replevin batt, I am ordered to sell the follow the number of our frame. This statement | that village, made an ascension this morning. was probably true.

General McDowkin had planned the battle | tions confirmed the surmines of inilitary men. with admirable skill. It was fought with un in regard to the erection of batteries or in tract of land, and on questioned ability and high courage on the trenchments on the side of the Point facing part of the men. The attempt to turn the enemy's right flank, under cover of two bold and well directed feints upon his front, certainly argues good military maneuvering .-The plan failed owing to several causes—this failure was a great misfortune. It is now thought to have resulted disastrously principally owing to the fact of a treachery which put the enemy in full possession of the de of value. I hope to be able to take a bird's tails of the plan, and thus enabled him to dis regard the feigned attacks upon his front and place superior numbers and cannon on the left flank, where the advantage was sought to be gained. It is evident that the enemy was in position, in line of battle, in front of the very place selected by our commander for the joining of HUNTER's and HEINTZELway's brigades, before their arrival on the field, and had there constructed his batteries and rifle pits, just ready for their reception. It is also evident that his reserves were in position for the fight to occur just at this will father say now?" point. The whole previous operation of our army, before Manassas, indicated the purpose so turn the enemy's right, in the direction of she ford where the battle of Thursday occurred-some six miles distant from the scene of the late engagement. It is said that this purpose was not changed until the day before the battle. The enemy evidently know this, and the knowledge came from with in our own lines ! The New York Times mainly attributes the disaster of the day to "the treachery which made the enemy acquainted with the details" of our plan of at tack. It will probably be found to have been the case. It is now high time that our army and navy is purged of traitors. The next step should be to purge Congress, the Judiciary, and all the Departments of the Government, of every evapathiser with rebellion. Until this is sione done rigidly, quickly, and effectually, we can wage no certain wartere. The events of the last few weeks err out for this purgation. Will it not be had?

la the course of the personal explanation given by the Hon. F. P. Blair, in the House, Mr. Richardson-I did not understand General Scott, nor did I mean so to be understood, as implying that the President had forced him to fight that battle. Mr. Blair, of Missouri-That is the very essence of this matter. But I go further, in reference to what occurred prior to that battle, and say that the President, after he had information that General Johnston had escaped through the hands of General Patter son and had joined General Beauregard on Friday evening, went to General Scott and suggested the propriety of waiting until Pat terson's corps could come up and reinforce the army that was then before Manasas; but so firmly fixed was General Scott's determination to attack the enemy then and there, that the President's suggestion was disregarded. The Secretary of War also returned from the field before the battle, and endeavored to induce General Scott to send forward reinforcements; he urged it again and agian; and finally succeeded in having five regiments sent, two of which reached Centreville before the retreat commenced .make these statements, and I make them for the purpose of preventing General Scott from being exhibited to the country, as has been attempted to be don't by his frieads, as assailing the President and his Administration. This conversation, as reported in the speech of the gentleman from Illinois-and that speech has other marks indicating a design to attack the Administration-hold

Who is Hurt! Gov. Morton told the patriotic meeting at Rockville last Saturday that "the sympathizers with the rebellion were closely watched, and the moment they put a foot outside of the limits of legal action they should feel the weight of the law." And the meeting was more than delighted with it -But the Sentinel is more than indiguant at it. It exhausts all the severity at its limited command in denouncing it, and evidently quits then because it is out of brains. The idea that the enemies of the Government are to be watched, so that they shall not play here the game they played so successfully in Washington, seems to it to be particularly disgusting, and the idea that if they violate the laws they are to be punished, seems to it particularly tyrannical. Inspired by its fears it imagines legions of secret police dogging

As it is its, clamor is the display either of guilt or childishness. If it has violated no law, and has no purpose to do so, the Governor's warning does not concern it. If it has violated any law, or designs to do so, it ought to be punished. No Democrat or Republican who is devoted to the Government, desires its maintenance, and assists its efforts, will care how many modes of testing his loyalty are used, or how many eyes watch for signs of unfaithfulness. Only those who, like the Sentinel, scream at the bug bear of their own fancies, confess the guilt which makes the bug bear terrible.- Ind. Jour.
